525 MILES

OF THE

UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD

Running West from Omaha

ACROSS THE CONTINENT,

ARE NOW COMPLETED.

THIS BRINGS THE LINE TO THE EASTERN BASE of the Rocky Mountains and it is expected that the track will be laid thirty miles further to Evans Pass the highest point on the road by January The maximum grade from the foot of the mountains to the summit is but eighty feet to the mile, while that of many eastern roads is over one hundred Work in the rock cuttings on the western slope will continue through the winter, and there is now no reason to doubt that the entire grand line to the Pacific will be open for business in 1870

The means provided for the construction of this Great National Work are ample The United States grants its Six Per Cent Bonds at the rate of from $16 000 to $48 000 per mile, for which it takes a second lien as security and receives payment to a large if not to the full extent of its claim in services These Bonds are issued as each twenty mile section is finished and after it has been examined by the United States Commissioners and pronounced to be in all respects a first class road thoroughly supplied with depots repair shops stations and all the necessary rolling stock and other equipments

The United States also makes a donation of 12,800 acres of land to the mile which will be a source of large revenue to the Company Much of this land in the Platte Valley is among the most fertile in the world and other large portions are covered with heavy pine forests and abound in coal of the best quality

The Company is also authorized to issue its own First Mortgage Bonds to an amount equal to the issue of the Government and no more Hon E D Morgan and Hon Oakes Ames are Trustees for the Bondholders and deliver the bonds to the Company only as the work progresses, so that they always represent an actual and productive value

The authorized capital of the Company is One Hundred Million Dollars, of which over five millions have been paid in upon the work already done

EARNINGS OF THE COMPANY.

At present the profits of the Company are derived only from its local traffic but this is already much more than sufficient to pay the interest on all the Bonds the Company can issue if not another mile were built It is not doubted that when the road is completed the through traffic of the only line connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States will be large beyond precedent and as there will be no competition it can always be done at profitable rates

It will be noticed that the Union Pacific Railroad is in fact a Government Work built under the supervision of Government officers and to a large extent with Government money, and that its bonds are issued under Government direction It is believed that no similar security is so carefully guarded and certainly no other is based upon a larger or more valuable property As the Company's are offered for the present at 95 CENTS ON THE DOLLAR, IN U S CURRENCY they are the cheapest security in the market being more than 15 per cent lower than U S Stocks They pay

SIX PER CENT. IN GOLD, or over NINE PER CENT. upon the investment Subscriptions will be received in Portland by

FROM THE UPPER COLUMBIA

SPOKANE RIVER, W T, Feb 29, 1868

EDITOR OREGONIAN

Since I wrote you last dreary winter has nearly spent its fury and we are again in the enjoyment of mild and spring like weather The weather has been unusually cold the past winter for this latitude, but withal comparatively little snow has fallen The thaw, a week ago to day, caused Hangman creek to overflow its banks, which together with the heavily formed ice came down literally in piles, carrying with its resistless currents all the bridges on that stream The mail was delayed a few days in consequence—that is, the Helena mail from Walla Walla which is now carried tri weekly The Spokane prairie is now clear of snow and stock, of all kinds is doing well

I see by some of the latest dispatches from Washington, that some movements are being made that leads to the belief that a subsidy will be granted by Congress to aid in the construction of the Northern Pacific Railroad This route cannot fail to recommend itself, if its friends only present all the facts relating thereto in a favorable light The fact that it is over five hundred miles nearer than the Central road, is an important item that should not be lost sight of, and if properly handled, must have great weight with those capitalists who are giving it their attention There being no high altitudes, such as are on the Central road, is a consideration of the greatest moment From the summit of the Rocky Mountains, coming this way it is almost a level country that is, by way of Cadot's Pass To follow the Jocko to its junction with the Pend Oreille river and down that stream on either side, it is nearly level to the lower landing of the steam boats at Pen d'Oreille City

It is a fact worthy of note, that for a distance of over four hundred miles from Cadot's Pass there is an abundance of timber There is no lack of timber only as the Columbia is approached on the western side There is, perhaps, a distance of seventy five or eighty miles on that side that the timber would have to be conveyed for the purposes of the road The road, too, from the above mentioned pass, would necessarily course through a rich agricultural country The country inhabited by the Blackfeet and Flathead Indians, is quite extensive, and one of the most fertile on this side of the mountains It is one of the best natural countries for stock in the world and in the vicinity of the pass, (Cadot's), snow seldom falls to exceed four feet The Indians travel back and forth during all the winter months with their horses

There would not, on the entire line be snow to exceed seven or eight feet, which would be in the Snoqualamie Pass—should that route be decided upon Upon the Columbia river route, perhaps the snow would not exceed half that depth The timber would be much scarcer on the Columbia river than by the other mentioned routes These hints are thrown out with the view of causing the facts, bearing in the case, to be fully investigated, so that those who may have charge of the work may act intelligently in the matter. These facts have been elicited from others, but I think they are in the main correct and reliable That the project of the North Pacific Railroad is a fixed fact is the opinion of

The Amazon from the Atlantic to Peru

[From the New York Tribune, Feb 7th 1868]

The members of the Travelers' Club and a number of their friends were entertained last night with a most interesting amusing and instructive lecture by the Reverend J C Fletcher, so well known as a South American traveler and explorer In introducing the lecturer, the President of the Club Dunbar, alluded to Fletcher's influence in promoting the interests of Brazil, and in bringing about an era of good feeling between her and the United States and recalled a social party of a few years ago, of which Fletcher was one and at which the subject of establishing a Travelers' Club was first broached Fletcher's lecture, although embracing much of interest in connection with many other sections of South America, was taken up principally with a general description of what is termed "the largest valley in the world, drained by the largest river in the world, rising among the highest mountains of the Western Continent" Brazil, he said, is Portuguese America, by reason of the language spoken by its people It is the wildest portion of South America, bearing the same relation to it in point of civilization that Idaho does to the United States but larger than the whole of the United States, excluding Alaska Territory The Amazon valley is equal to the entire area of our country east of a line drawn due north and south through Colorado yet inhabited by a population scarcely as great as that of Chicago The speaker's description of a Brazilian forest in the season of bloom, was a delightful treat and his word picture of a tour through the market of Para something so refreshingly unique that those who enjoyed it last night will never forget it He amused his hearers with many humorous allusions, like the passage of the rain clouds from one point to another in a sort of "swinging round the circle" without anything stronger than water attributing the cause of the Paraguayan war to a pe one and the whims of an Irishman and over throwing all accepted theories relative to the origin of the name "Amazon" as applied to the river, by describing the dress of a tribe of Indian warriors along its banks, and holding that their feminine attire deceived the followers of Pizarro's brother in days gone by, just as it would be likely to deceive more observing and less timid military men of to day The lecturer in commenting the effeminate garments of the dusky fighting men did not omit to mention that each and every one wore an immense waterfall as an appropriate accompaniment to his long robe, and carried for defense a shield made of turtle's shell—a fine specimen of which he exhibited to the audience and afterwards presented to the Club The lecture was enjoyed throughout the hour and a half of its delivery by an intelligent assemblage and was frequently applauded

DEMOCRATIC DIFFERENCES —There is reason to fear that the most formidable attempt to defeat the nomination of George H Pendleton before the National Convention will come from the Eastern ring of bondholders and the political Ishmaelites of Wall street, whose organ is the Herald That paper, while continuing to inculcate its half way Democracy, managing to be on the Abolition side of all the vital questions of the day has treated the nomination of the Western Democracy for the Presidency with a supercilious ignorance and impertinent flippancy only equaled by the course of the Herald from which nothing better could be expected The course of the World subjects it to the suspicion that it is actuated rather by a desire to subserve the interests of the bondholders than to promote the success of the only party which can save the country from despotism and ruin The case is aggravated by the belief, well founded or not, that the Chairman of the National Committee, the agent of five kings and hundreds of millions of dollars, is at the bottom of a scheme to defeat the Ohio nominee because of his views upon financial questions The Democracy of this country have been too often fooled into false positions by such machinations to be again defeated by them, and we trust that forewarned as they must be, of the attempt, they will be prepared to foil it in whatever shape it may present itself —Columbus Crisis

HE KNEW HOW —The Springfield (Mass) Republican has the following anecdote of a cute Yankee resident

The late storm filled one of the new and smaller streets with snow so that it became almost an impossibility to pass through it, but as only two houses were on the street and only two persons had occasion to pass through it daily the task of breaking a path became a formidable one and the expense of having it broken would by no means be trifling One of its two inhabitants, however, had an eye for business In the Republican he inserted an advertisement offering his house for sale at a mere song The plan worked like a charm From immediately after breakfast until late at night, and on the next day also, a stream of hungry speculators of all sexes and nations on foot and in sleighs and carriages poured down the blockaded street to secure the great bargain Of course they were all just too late as they were told but long before the last had departed the last snowdrift had vanished, and the street was smooth and hard as a plank floor—and all for half a dollar

Letter from Canyon City

CANYON CITY, March 2 1868

EDITOR OREGONIAN

Grant county has a population of about twelve hundred and fifty persons not including the soldiers stationed here Scattered over the northern portions of the country on the head of John Day's river and its tributaries, are the following mining camps

Canyon City being one of the most important mining camps in Eastern Oregon, is situated on Canyon Creek, about two miles from the main John Day's river It now contains about two hundred and fifty inhabitants with seven stores several one two shoe shops two eating houses one bakery, one brewery, two blacksmith shops two butcher shops etc, etc It also contains the Court Houses and one jail three physicians and seven lawyers The Catholics have a church here The place can boast of no school at present The mines in the vicinity are numerous Several very rich quartz ledges have been partially developed, among which is the famous "I X L" ledge, known as one of the richest in Eastern Oregon The owners of this ledge are engaged on a tunnel some 600 feet in length which will be finished in a short time

On the north side of John Day's river is Dixie creek a camp of some importance, which employs about 200 miners mostly Chinese

North of Canyon City, on the Middle Fork of John Day's river is Elk creek running in from the North, which is considered by competent judges as the best quartz mining district in the State The ledges are mostly lying idle for want of capital to work them successfully There are about sixty persons at this place Twelve miles above on the same stream is Vincent creek, with but few mines North of Vincent creek about fifteen miles are Olive creek and the Burnt river diggings, and six miles north of Olive is Granite creek These camps are the most important points in that section About 250 miners, half of whom are Chinese, find employment there

Sixty miles north of Canyon City is the North Fork of John Day, where there has been some excitement over the discoveries of the past season But the truth is that few claims have been found which will justify working, and the place is declining

But we do not depend on mining alone. We have rich farming and grazing lands, which are sufficient to make this country wealthy without the mines. John Day's valley is seventy five miles long, with an average width of eight or nine miles A large portion of it is fit for cultivation, and the remainder furnishes good grazing The rearing of stock will ere long be the principal occupation of our people

In politics, both parties are at work, and both claiming success The leaders of the Union party are overhauling the county finances and promise some rich developments. This causes uneasiness in Democratic circles, and some of them admit that the Union men will have the best of it.

More as events transpire W K G.

HOW ELECTIONS ARE CONDUCTED BY THE MORMONS —The N Y Tribune, of February 10, says The contest of William McGrorty, Gentile candidate for delegate from the Territory of Utah, against William H Hooper, the Mormon candidate, affords a fair illustration of the way political affairs are managed in the region of country which we style the Territory of Utah, but which the Latter Day Saints regard as the "State of Deseret" Mr Cooper is returned as having received 15 068 votes while Mr McGrorty claims only 105 But it appears that every vote cast for Hooper was cast for the voters by the Bishops and other officers of the Mormon church, who sat as inspectors of election, and merely asked the voter's name and residence, and then voted for him Thousands of votes were cast by the Bishops for persons who never appeared at the polls at all but whose names are handed in by those who did appear Great numbers also voted who have avoided being naturalized, in order to escape the draft and the other disabilities of citizens. Many whose votes are returned either voted or are certified before officers of the "State of Deseret," and not of the Territory of Utah Indeed, the Mormons seem to labor under the impression that the laws of the United States are subject to the will of the saints, instead of the faithful being subject to the laws of the United States Mr McGrorty does not prove conclusively that no votes were legally cast for his opponent, but he shows that, if any legal votes were so cast, they form the exception to the general rule

"DEMOCRATIC" CREDENTIALS —The Unionist has the following, which affords a happy illustration of the qualifications required in a "Democratic" candidate

It was a little difficult for the Democratic County Convention, which met in Salem last week, to find men who were willing to be sacrificed for the good of the cause by accepting nominations While this dilemma was staring the Convention in the face a delegate rose and put in nomination B F White, of Northern precinct Another delegate inquired if any one knew Mr White? A general silence followed the inquiry—nobody could tell who the gentleman was At this juncture, the delegate who nominated Mr White, rose and said he had in his possession a letter which he presumed would satisfy the Convention of the fitness of the candidate for the position to which he aspired He then read a letter which stated that Mr White came to this State two years ago, from Missouri, that he was a life long Democrat, and that while in Missouri he had served under Claib Jackson in the State Guard It is needless to add, that this State Guard was a treasonable organization, or that Claib Jackson was a traitor It is also unnecessary to state that B F White received thirty eight out of forty-two votes in the Convention beating Mr Harran a moderate Democrat, by a majority of thirty six. It will be interesting to hear Mr White relate his military experience in the canvass

LITERATURE AND DEMOCRACY —Our Democratic friends seem to have a standing quarrel with all the leading literary organs of the day They complain that the North American Review, Atlantic Monthly, Putnam's Magazine, the New York Nation, and other publications of a similar grade, are filled with nothing but Republican politics" The Stockton Independent explains the fact thus

"The Democratic party has no poets, no historians, no men of eminence in any branch of literature The cultivated intellect of the country is all against them being imbued with that high patriotism which the events of the last ten years have so remarkably developed "

We feel called upon to rebuke the Independent for this harsh and hasty judgment Our Democratic brethren can boast over so many Southern poets though their names are not as yet familiar to the literary world Has not the Independent heard of Pollard the great Southern historian of the war of Mrs Augusta J Evans the great Southern novelist of "Admiral Semmes" the distinguished lecturer of "Bill Arp" the renowned Southern humorist, or of Brick Pomeroy, the model Democratic journalist? We would advise the Independent to post itself in current Democratic literature before it indulges in any further sneering remarks of the kind that we have quoted —S F Times

REFORMED —Nasby testifies that My-Policy Andrew, has "reformed," and given up mixed drinks He says

"Fr a further guaranty uv his (Andy's) faithfulnis I may say that I hev it from the best authority that he takes on'y whisky straite, havin given over all them demoralizin fancy beverages wich endoost him while he wuz in the bonds uv inikity and the gall uv bitterness "

We suspect that the illustrious Chief Executive went back on the vow of reformation prior to his last demonstration against "the Rump." He must have mixed his liquor before sending Thomas to turn Stanton out of the War Office Nothing but the bewildering influence of "them demoralizin fancy beverages" could have at this great nation of the people to talking about "Our Privy Council" and made him imagine himself the Emperor of the United States However he has probably got over the delusion by this time —S F Chronicle

Overland Route from Alaska to St. Paul—Description of Alaska.

(From the St. Paul Press, Feb 2.)

We had the pleasure of meeting, yesterday, a gentleman who has just reached the city, having been engaged since last August in making the perilous and adventurous overland trip from our new Russian American possessions

The gentleman in question was one of the employees of the Overland Telegraph Company, whose lines were to run up through Russian America, thence across to Russia and St. Petersburg, and has been in the employ of the company that has since carried on the work. The company having suspended operations for a time, he came down to the southern part of Russian America, and going up Portland Canal, the salt water inlet which forms its southern boundary, and ascending Nass river (given on some maps as Simpson river), started in August last on his overland trip

By making a portage he was enabled to pass by means of a line of small lakes from the head waters of the Simpson river to Fort McLeod, on the headwaters of the Peace river. Following this branch, he came into the Finlay river, and soon into the Peace river proper; following this river, which flows along a beautiful valley through the Rocky Mountains, he kept on in his canoe with his Indian guide to the Dunvegan. Here he went out of the way to visit Smoky river, so called from the country being clouded with smoke from the burning peaks, the soil being a mass of earth mingled with petroleum.

Continuing his journey, sometimes in a canoe, sometimes on a horse, and sometimes on foot, he crossed to Lesser Slave Lake, up the shore at its northerly end, and thence by portage to the Saskatchewan, and down it to the Carlton House. Here the water courses were left altogether, and our adventurous traveler continued his journey on horseback and in dog-sleds to Fort Garry, on the Red river; thence with dog trains which carry the mail to Pembina and Fort Abercrombie, and thence to this city, whence he intends to proceed to New York, where he will shortly take the steamer for California.

One not accustomed to that mode of life can hardly imagine the difficulties, privations and dangers attending such a journey through a country, large portion of which was inhabited only by Indians, and dependent upon them for supplies of food for the traveler and guide, which were often obtained with the greatest difficulty.

Our adventurer was for a considerable length of time in the central portion of Russian America, or Alaska, having aided in clearing the way for the telegraph line, which, starting from the terminus of other lines which ran up from California, through Oregon and British Columbia to the southern boundary of our new possessions, thence has penetrated well up toward the Arctic ocean He is well posted as to its climate, the nature of the country and capabilities, being a shrewd observer, and having a large fund of general knowledge.

It will be seen that on some of the late maps the Youcon river is represented as flowing into the Arctic Ocean, while on others this is laid as a branch of a large river which flows into the Pacific near Behring's Straits. The latter is correct, this river, which is called the [illegible] (we don't claim to give the Russian spelling), being navigable for one thousand miles through the interior of the country.

The country contains plenty of timber, principally pine, hemlock and spruce, and also large quantities of coal, which the Indians burn in their lodges, it being similar to Pennsylvania coal The land all along down the coast is well timbered, and has at intervals rivers which furnish the best of water powers. The lumber trade with California and Oregon is destined to be an important one as well as to Asia, as it was necessary to ship large quantities of telegraph poles from the Pacific coast to supply the Asiatic end of the line

Some portions of the country are dotted with numerous lakes and occasional marshes, and are richly supplied with minerals, which have heretofore not been worked for two reasons, one being the difficulty of access, and the other that all precious metals found, until the recent purchase, fell to the royal treasury.

Gardens are common and fine vegetables are raised. Thermometrical observations have been regularly kept for four years at Fort Yukon, on the Youcon river, about midway between the Pacific and Arctic oceans, showing a climate about the same as Quebec and Montreal. The cod fisheries near the islands along the coast are unsurpassed, while the finest furs are wonderfully plenty and cheap, being bought for a trifle from the Indians

Many and conflicting statements have already been published in regard to Alaska, which gives the description of one whose acquaintance with the country is the result of actual and personal observation of special interest. We give his statements as they were furnished to us, withholding his name at his request, his position and the business connected with his present trip rendering this desirable.

THURSDAY MORNING, MARCH 12, 1868.

Johnson's Demurrer.

Johnson's friends can never stop harping on their theory that Congress, as now constituted, is not a lawful body. All their arguments begin and end with this assumption. It is continually asserted that Johnson will deny the jurisdiction of the Senate in the trial of impeachment, because only twenty-seven States are represented in that body. This would be in accordance with what he said in his intemperate harangues during his Western Progress in 1866. He then repeatedly declared that the Thirty-Ninth Congress was not a lawful Congress of the United States; declarations for which, had he been dealt with as he deserved, he would have been impeached immediately after the re-assembling of that body in the following December. If the recent announcement of his intentions in regard to his course in the impeachment trial be compared with his former declarations and actions, it can hardly be considered improbable that he will attempt to take the course which has been foreshadowed. So great is his folly that no one would be at all astonished to see him deny the jurisdiction of the Senate, and undertake to deliver himself from the predicament he is in by an attempt to resign. The judgment which will surely follow the verdict of the Senate is what he dreads. The Constitution provides that this judgment may extend not only to removal from office, but to "disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit under the United States." When this judgment is pronounced against Johnson, he will be compelled to bid a long farewell to all his greatness, and his passion for holding office will be forced once more to content itself with the position of "alderman of his native village." For him, no more wretched fate could be imagined. He must avoid it or he cannot be the Democratic candidate for the Presidency, and all his labors and intrigues in that direction will have been in vain. But he will hardly be permitted to escape by the dodge of resignation. It was a favorite remark with him when "swinging round the circle" that "his race was nearly run;" and there are waiting millions who hope to witness the speedy fulfillment of this "humble" saying.

If Senators from twenty-seven States do not constitute the Senate of the United States, Andrew Johnson, who was chosen Vice President at an election in which but twenty five States participated, is not a lawful President. When he was fulminating against Congress as "an illegal body" in 1866, he was denying his own right to the Executive office, and proclaiming himself a usurper. For that Congress was elected by the same States that elected him Vice President, and part of it was elected at the same time. The Senate at this moment represents more States than the number that voted when Johnson was elected; for Tennessee has been readmitted, and Nebraska has come in. It is preposterous for Johnson to plead that the Senate is a fragmentary body and cannot try him; for the principle would invalidate his own claim to the Presidential office. It would also nullify every measure of the Government since 1861, and reopen every question which has been settled by the war.

Composition of the Senate.

The United States Senate is composed of the following members. Republicans: Conness and Cole, of California; Ferry, of Connecticut; Yates and Trumbull, of Illinois; Morton, of Indiana; Grimes and Harlan, of Iowa; Ross and Pomeroy, of Kansas; Morrill and Fessenden, of Maine; Sumner and Wilson, of Massachusetts; Howard and Chandler, of Michigan; Ramsey, of Minnesota; Henderson and Drake of Missouri; Thayer and Tipton, of Nebraska; Stewart and Nye, of Nevada; Cragin and Patterson, of New Hampshire; Frelinghuysen and Cattell of New Jersey; Morgan and Conkling, of New York; Sherman and Wade, of Ohio; Williams and Corbett, of Oregon; Cameron, of Pennsylvania; Sprague and Anthony, of Rhode Island; Fowler, of Tennessee; Edmunds and Morrill, of Vermont; Van Winkle and Willey, of West Virginia, and Howe, of Wisconsin—42.

Democrats: Dixon, of Connecticut; Saulsbury and Bayard, of Delaware; Hendricks, of Indiana; Davis and McCreery, of Kentucky; Johnson and Vickers, of Maryland; Norton, of Minnesota; Buckalew, of Pennsylvania; Patterson, of Tennessee, and Doolittle, of Wisconsin. —12.

The whole number of Senators is 54. Two-thirds of that body, the number necessary to convict in a case of impeachment, is therefore 36. If all the Democratic Senators vote to acquit the President, it will require in addition the votes of seven Union Senators to save him.

The Herald says: "The only disgraceful street brawl which we have ever witnessed in Portland was a Sunday fight between the editor of the OREGONIAN—a young man weighing about 200 pounds and a much older man, crippled in one arm, whose weight would not exceed 130 pounds." As this affair has been alluded to several times by the Democratic press, we take this occasion to say in regard to it that Jim. O'Meara insulted the editor of the OREGONIAN in the street without provocation, and got spanked for it,—the very same treatment which Beriah Brown would receive under similar circumstances.

Pendleton's greenback scheme doesn't meet with much favor among Democratic leaders, in the Eastern States, and many predict that it will be the death of him in the Democratic National Convention. There are a good many capitalists among the leaders of that party in the East, and they don't take kindly to Mr. Pendleton's repudiation scheme. Hon. Demas Barnes, of Brooklyn, a Democratic Congressman, in a speech a few days ago, made a very able argument against it, showing up its folly and rascality very plainly.

The Sacramento Union well says that "Johnson could not have chosen a more untenable position than he now occupies. He has grossly violated a statute which he had before recognized as law. His only defense is that he considers it unconstitutional. He has carried out the muffled threat of his last message, and presumed to be the Judge as well as the President. If he can do this with one law, he can with any other. He claims to be a monarch, competent to set aside whatever legislation he does not like."

The New York Commercial quotes the Presidential language in reference to his interview with Grant before the Cabinet, as follows: "He is not a big man," said Johnson, "either mentally, morally or physically; but before he had answered the questions WE put to him, he seemed to have shriveled up into no bigger than my fist." The noticeable part of this is the use of the word we have put in capitals; as to bad language we are accustomed to that.

The Record says that Silverton Precinct has elected delegates to the Democratic county convention who have each a plain record. One, whose name is Sanders, was in Price's army in Missouri, and is said to have boasted of his effective efforts to aid the rebellion. There is not a Democrat in Oregon whose record is clearer than that of Bill Sanders.

Johnson has long been trying to carrying his controversy with Congress into the Courts. He has got it before a Court now that will settle it quick enough for him.

A Salem paper says that Judge Boise contemplates removal to that place from his farm in Polk county.

Humboldt Branch Railroad Bill.

We have received a copy of the bill recently introduced in the House of Representatives by Mr. Mallory, to aid in the construction of a railroad from Portland, to connect with the Central Pacific on the Humboldt. Among the incorporators are a large number of leading citizens of this State and Nevada, with several prominent men of New York City and other parts of the country. The capital stock is fixed at forty thousand shares of two hundred and fifty dollars each. The bill asks for the same privileges, rights and subsidies as have been granted to the Union Pacific road, and the same amount for each mile in the Cascade mountains as is provided for in the Nevada mountains. No particular point is designated at which to pass the Cascade range. It is provided that the Company shall commence work within two years after the approval of the act by the President; that not less than thirty miles shall be finished each year, and that the whole road shall be completed by 1878. As we have before observed, there is little or no prospect that this or any other bill of a similar nature will pass at this time, as a very large majority of the members of Congress, without distinction of party, have declared against any further grants, at present, of the kind.

THE RESULT.—The London correspondent of the New York Times, says the result of the annual posting of accounts in England is not very satisfactory. The wheat crop last year fell short of 24,000,000 bushels. Potatoes were less than any year since the Irish famine. The metal trade, except tin, has been as bad as could be. There are reduction of wages in the great iron works. The woolen and cotton trades have been dull and disastrous.

The whole bill of appropriations for the Government foots up $275,000,000 in greenbacks, for which $191,000,000 is covered by extraordinary expenses unknown to the Government before the war, and justly attributable to the treason of the Democratic party. But $84,000,000 goes to the ordinary expenses of the Government, which is not as much as the Buchanan administration averaged per year.

All the Copperhead papers are howling in concert about the Grand Army of the Republic. This is hardly to be wondered at, for the Grand Army is composed of the very men who defeated the Democratic party at Shiloh, Antietam, Gettysburg and Richmond, and who are going to take a prominent part in bringing about its Waterloo this fall.

The Union says: "We know that on a direct issue between Congress and the President, California is good for Congress by 15,000 majority."

The Lewiston Journal says snow had been scarce at all the camps above that place and in Montana.

Yamhill County Union Convention.

The Yamhill County Convention met at Lafayette, March 7th, 1868, in pursuance of the recommendation of the State Central Committee, and the call of the County Central Committee, and organized by electing Gen. Joel Palmer, Chairman, and S. C. Adams, Secretary. After which the following named persons were elected as delegates to represent the Union party of Yamhill county in the ensuing Union State Convention, as follows, to-wit: Hon. Joel Palmer, B. S. Watt, Dr. H. V. V. Johnson, Col. G. B. Curry, Hon. Jere. Lamson and S. C. Adams.

On motion, Messrs. A. S. Watt, G. B. Curry, Cris. Taylor, J. R. Bean and J. Lamson were appointed a committee on resolutions, who, after consideration, reported the following, which were unanimously adopted, to wit:

Resolved, That respect for the Constitution, obedience to law, and the preservation of the Union, are the three great cardinal principles of our faith, and upon these are built our party and our hopes; therefore, until the great work of reconstruction is an accomplished fact, all minor questions of policy should remain in abeyance.

Resolved, That the status of the white man does not depend upon that of the black, and that while we believe the white the superior race, we would not hinder the progress of the black, but maintain our natural superiority by greater moral and intellectual advancement.

Resolved, That in Ulysses S. Grant, the patriot, soldier and statesman, the people have entire confidence. As a patriot, he has ever served his country with fervor and with honor; as a soldier, he led our armies to victory, and crushed out rebellion in the field; as a statesman, by the simplicity of obedience to law, he has given evidence of greatness equalled only by his honesty and integrity.

Resolved, That we endorse Congress in the impeachment of the President, holding that it is their legal and constitutional right to institute such proceedings.

On motion, the Secretary was ordered to furnish a copy of the proceedings of this Convention, and the resolutions adopted, to the OREGONIAN and Unionist for publication.

JOEL PALMER, Chairman.

IMPEACHABLE OFFENSES.—The Sacramento Union advances the following opinions on the question of impeachment. The position taken is supported by the best authorities and is sanctioned by the practice in such cases:

It does not appear to be essential to impeachment that an actual violation of law should be alleged or proved. The President and other officers of the Government are sworn to faithfully execute the laws. They may fail in this by omission as well as commission. The President may hinder and prevent the execution of the laws by appointing subordinates who will wink at their violation. He may himself encourage disobedience and resistance by continually denouncing legislation as unconstitutional, and holding his pardoning power over the law-breakers as a protection. This conduct would be just as guilty and just as injurious on the part of the President as would actual violation of the law, and it constitutes a high crime and misdemeanor in the meaning of the Constitution. It is the object of impeachment to deal with precisely this sort of official misconduct which does not amount to a positive criminal act, but which equally unfits the officer for his position. Johnson has clearly been guilty of this species of misconduct in office. He has endeavored to warp the laws from their true and obvious meaning. He has put constructions upon them to suit his own purposes, and in contradiction to his own previous interpretation. He has openly and constantly denounced them as unconstitutional, and thereby encouraged disobedience of and resistance to them. He has removed faithful officers and appointed others with the view to frustrate them. And this course of conduct has notoriously had the effect to hinder the execution of the laws. This alone, in our view, is ample cause for impeachment. Such conduct is in clear violation of the oath of office. It tends to public demoralization, to bring the legislative body into contempt, and to incite to revolution. All this may be effected without positive criminal breach of any particular statute, and it is to prevent this that the process of impeachment is instituted.

There is a fish called the laff, which is more serious than funny in its effects. It buries itself in the mud or sand, and is the more dangerous for its power of assuming the color of its hiding place. It is armed with a spine, of which the wound is only just short of deadly. An English soldier, pricked by one in the hollow of the foot, was instantly seized with faintness. The pain was so acute that it required four men to hold him down in his bed when the paroxysm came on; and although he eventually recovered, he was two months in the hospital. The most remarkable circumstance connected with the pain of the wound is that it increases and decreases with the rise and fall of the tide.

When Lincoln was assassinated, the Queen wrote a letter of sympathy to his widow, and the Rev. Newman Hall had a conversation with Bob Lincoln on the topic, and asked him about the Queen's letter. "Yes," said Bob, "we have been often asked about that letter; we have been asked to publish it. But it is a long letter of three pages, the outgushing of a generous woman's heart, and my mother and myself thought it would not be right to publish a letter written in the effusion of a woman's heart."

Belfast, Maine, is willing to change the name of its Passagassawakeng river to Baxwakeuk, which, it is said, is just as proper.

Union Club at McMinnville.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

Pursuant to previous notice, the Union voters of McMinnville precinct, Yamhill county, met at Johnson's Hall, in the town of McMinnville, March 6, 1868, for the purpose of organizing a Union Club.

The meeting was organized by choosing J. H. Gaunt Chairman, and J. H. Johnson Secretary.

The following constitution and resolutions were adopted:

We, the undersigned, to effect a better organization of the Union party, preparatory to the coming State and National elections, do hereby adopt and agree to obey the following Constitution and the rules passed in accordance with its provisions.

This organization shall be known as the McMinnville Union Club.

ARTICLE 2. The officers of this club shall be, a President, Three Vice Presidents, a Recording Secretary, a Corresponding Secretary and Treasurer, said officers to hold their offices for a period of three months, their duties to be severally defined by law.

ART. 3. The regular meetings of this club shall be held on the second and fourth Saturdays of each month; and the club may meet at any time pursuant to the call of the President.

ART. 4. There shall be a Committee of Three, whose duty it shall be to procure public speakers, and to arrange an order of exercises for each meeting:

ART. 5. Any person desiring to become a member of the club, may do so by signing this Constitution and Resolutions.

Resolved, 1. That as American citizens we unqualifiedly pledge our support to the Union party.

2. That we recognize the Union party as the party which, when the armed cohorts of treason attempted to dismember and destroy this Government, rose in their majesty and might, and resolving that "by the Eternal, the Union must and shall be preserved," poured out their blood and treasure in its defense, putting down rebellion, and thus preserving to us and our posterity the inestimable privilege of living under the purest and best Government ever given to man.

3. That we recognize the fact that the seeds of disunion and treason were planted and grew up into a strong and vigorous tree, under sixty-five years of Democratic rule: and when its fruit ripened into armed rebellion under a Democratic administration, it was the Democratic party of the North which, through its organs and Conventions, declared it unconstitutional to put down rebellion—that this Government had no right to coerce the South; that States had a right to secede, and by discouraging enlistments, recommending armed resistance, etc., gave aid and comfort to the rebels in every way except the dangerous one of exposing themselves to Union bullets.

4. That we endorse the acts of the representatives of the Union party in Congress, trusting that the wisdom and patriotism, which saved our country from dismemberment in the past, will be sufficient to solve the various questions arising out of the war, restore the Union, and work out for it a glorious destiny in the future.

5. That the present policy of the Democratic party is the same as that which governed them during the rebellion—favor to rebels and hostility to Union men—and those who affiliate with them during the coming contest, by that act approve of that policy, and endeavor to place in their hands the reins of a government they so lately attempted to destroy.

6. That we favor economy in the public expenditures, and the lowest possible rate of taxation consistent with an honest administration of public affairs; a speedy reorganization of those States whose governments were destroyed by rebellion, and their permanent restoration to proper relations with the United States in accordance with the true principles of Republican Government.

The following permanent officers were elected: Dr. H. V. V. Johnson, President; C. C. Saylor, W. Dawson and J. W. Rogers, Vice Presidents; Recording Secretary, Joel H. Johnson; Corresponding Secretary, John H. Hall; Treasurer, J. R. Bean.

Ordered that the proceedings of this meeting be sent to the OREGONIAN and American Unionist.

J. H. JOHNSON, Secretary.
McMinnville, March 7, 1868.

ONLY TWENTY-TWO MILLIONS SAVED BY THE REPUBLICANS.—The Washington Chronicle says:

The Secretary of the Navy, differing from General Grant, asked the trifling sum of forty-seven millions three hundred and seventeen thousand dollars for his next year's expenditure; but the Republican House sternly objecting to the delicate request, the kind Secretary instantly cuts down his demand to twenty-four millions nine hundred and twenty-four thousand dollars. Suppose the House had voted the subsidy, what a rejoicing there would have been in those Copperhead snuggeries, the navy yards of New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Portsmouth, Boston and Norfolk.

ROUGH ON THE PRESIDENT.—A correspondent tells a good story of what took place a few days ago in the Executive chamber, when the President complained to a high official that he had removed a Democrat and appointed in his place an abusive radical. "I don't know how that is," was the reply, "but I do know that the man I appointed voted for you for Vice-President, and the man I removed not only voted against you, but said you were a drunkard and a blackguard, after your inauguration as President." If not true it is well conceived.

A Swiss inventor has found a better motor than steam, so he says, and is willing to divulge his secret for ten million dollars.

CONVENIENT AND SIMPLE.—"BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES" are a simple and convenient form for administering, in combination, several medical substances held in general esteem among physicians in the treatment of Bronchial affections and Coughs. The Troches seldom fail to give relief.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF IDAHO—BOISE CITY, I. T.—Organized March 11th, 1867, (with circulation) under Act of Congress, approved June 3d, 1864. Authorized capital $500,000. Paid up capital $100,000. B. M. DuRell, President. C. W. Moore, Cashier. Collections of Notes and Accounts on the principal places of Idaho Territory promptly attended to. Exchange for Coin or Currency on this Bank can be purchased of Ladd & Tilton, Portland, Oregon.

THE STEAMER JOHN L. STEPHENS not lost! but has arrived at Portland, and brought to KOHN & FISHEL, the largest and best assortment of Gentlemen's Spring and Summer Suits, the latest style, and of the best material that has been offered in this city for years. The Ladies have not been forgotten. They will find by an inspection of the stock just arrived, that their wants have been anticipated by a selection of dry goods, the equal of which is not often presented here.

Buchtel's Photograph Gallery is the only establishment in Oregon that is thoroughly prepared to do all the different styles of work in the art. Photographs from card to life size. The new cabinet cards, &c., &c. Small pictures enlarged (retouched in India ink—painted in water-colors or oil) by Mrs. S. J. Bunnsey. Pictures that are fading can be reproduced in this way. All negatives taken in this gallery will be carefully preserved, and additional copies had. I have now on hand a very large collection of negatives, the names of which are recorded alphabetically in a book for that purpose that can be seen in the reception room.

Rather Rough Challenge.—"THE BILLIARD TABLE," a monthly New York paper of that name published in the interest of Kavanagh & Decker, Billiard Manufacturers, of New York, has the following challenge in its November number, which we consider worthy to call the attention of our Billiard Manufacturers of this State

"CHALLENGE.—We will place $1000 in the hands of any responsible party, whenever any manufacturer or manufacturers of Billiard Tables in the world shall signify a willingness to test the merits of his or their cushion with ours, and to venture a like sum on the decision. The cushion to be submitted to the examination of a committee of impartial and scientific men, who shall have power to investigate their merits thoroughly by actual trial with balls, dissection, etc.

"This wager is not offered for the purpose of winning money, but solely to settle conclusively, point but the alleged claim to superiority of our cushions, and we should prefer that the money staked should go to some charitable object.

"We invite the especial attention of Messrs. Phelan & Collender to this challenge. fed27d2p6t

HOMES FOR THE WIDOWS AND MOTHERS OF SOLDIERS.—An appeal to the loyal and humane citizens of the United States, has lately been issued from New York in behalf of the destitute widows and mothers of those fallen in the land and naval service of the nation, during the late rebellion. It proposes to raise funds through contributions and a "National Fair" to be opened at New York on the 14th of April to fund and maintain National Homes at convenient and central points wherein all such, aided by their lawful allowance may find an honorable retreat, and spend the evening of their lives unassailed by want, degradation, or temptation to crime—to the privileges of which they shall ever have priority of admission, but from whence no aged and infirm woman shall be turned away, her character, necessities and the accommodations of the House permitting. The President of the National Executive Committee which has the matter in charge, is Mrs. Lt. Gen. W. T. Sherman, and George W. Pratt, Esq., 47 Exchange Place, New York, is Treasurer. Among the names signed to the appeal are those of nearly all the distinguished Generals of the war, nearly all the distinguished women of the country, many of the Governors and ex-Governors of States, a large number of the members of the National Congress, leading editors and literary men of the country and numerous others. Of Oregon names we find those of ex-Governor Gibbs, Hon. O. H. Wells, Hon. Henry Failing and Mrs. Eliza Ainsworth. The appeal asks for contributions to the National Fair; but so far as Oregon is concerned that is perhaps impracticable. Oregon can, however, send in money, and either of the persons named above will doubtless take pleasure in forwarding all such sums as may be contributed. We quote the concluding paragraphs of the appeal:

"It is singly delicate and praiseworthy, indeed, is that National sentiment which at an expense of almost a [illegible] sought expression in the care and adornment of the graves of her brave defenders! But think [illegible] that, among all the quarter of a million of dead heroes there could be found one who, had a choice been necessary, would not have told you as he sent his last sigh towards his distant home, to bury him there, if you would, beneath the sod which drank his life blood? Let his grave be unmarked, and the [illegible] above alone chant his requiem; but if his country valued the lives which he and his comrades so freely gave in its defense, let not that country forget the bereaved ones who look in vain for their return. Peace [illegible] with the warrior's last sleep, did he die in the assurance that a grateful people would not permit the rude [illegible] to visit his desolate home too roughly or the smoking embers to die out on the family hearth. [illegible] in the presence of helpless and hoary age, the lingering remnants of a Nation's strife, whose attenuated and trembling fingers touch sorrowfully her heart-strings, let us recall our sacred contract with the dead [illegible] can be preceded in importance by no other obligation, its neglect, if neglect were possible, [illegible] in vain forever without excuse, and a dark and bitter reproach to our people."

PORTLAND MACHINERY.—The Lewiston Journal pays the following handsome compliment to Portland made machinery: Mr. Wm. Wilcox, the machinist, who put up the [illegible] quartz mill at Warren's Camp, gave us a call as he passed through this place to Portland, Oregon. He gives a good account of the quartz in that district and has so much confidence in the camp that he will identify and interest himself in the milling business there, and is now on his way to Portland, Oregon, with the intention of building and taking there early in the spring a [illegible] mill, each stamp weighing 700 pounds. The mill will be of his own make and be built at the Willamette Iron Works at Portland. Mr. W. gives decided preference to Portland for quartz machinery for this upper country [illegible] than San Francisco, for the cogent reasons that contracts can be made there at San Francisco prices, thus saving freight and delay; that when once a mill is built there, it is more convenient to order for repairs for the [illegible] in this district; that two of the foundries there can and do execute machinery in as a workman-like manner as San Francisco, having employed the most skillful and practical mechanics, and using only the best of materials. Why, we do not know—yet there has been created a prejudice to the detriment of the Portland manufactured machinery which now, however, is being fast removed, the recent work there has proven that they can make machinery equal to the best, be it from where it may.

HAIL TO THE CHIEF.—The village of Vancouver, though it has no town pump, has a Callithumpian Band, composed of musical performers upon instruments of a nondescript character and whose sounds are supposed to be [illegible] anything ever heard upon the earth or under the [illegible]. The chief of the band was a passenger by the [illegible], hearing of which, the band chartered [illegible] Troup and ran down to the mouth of the river [illegible] and welcome him and take him in triumphal [illegible] on board the Troup, to Vancouver. The moment [illegible] the chief stepped on board the Troup, his faithful followers struck up one of their most stirring pieces and performed it in that peculiarly bewitching style which had so [illegible] at the dead hour of midnight, awakened and [illegible] all the women, children and timid men of Vancouver. The chief, it is related, smiled and then he and the band smiled together at his expense. The affair [illegible] no small amount of merriment among the [illegible] passengers.

[illegible] FLOUR IN SAN FRANCISCO.—The Oregon [illegible] of flour have not been recently quoted in the San [illegible] commercial reports. If they have had occasional [illegible] sales of Oregon flour, they have nearly always quoted it "Private." It has seemed to us remarkable that so many sales of Oregon flour should be made upon terms strictly "private." What could it mean? A letter received in this city by the steamer J. [illegible], from San Francisco, says that the Imperial [illegible] selling for 12½c per bbls higher than any brand in the market. Other leading Oregon brands are doubtless selling quite as well as the San Francisco brands. May it not be that the plan of quoting sales of Oregon [illegible] "private," is part of a general plan among jobbers [illegible] keep such brands in the back ground? To prevent buyers in other markets from learning that there [illegible] equal, if not superior, to the California brands? [illegible] at least is a rational solution of the mystery.

FREIGHT BY THE STEAMER.—The John L. Stephens [illegible] up eleven hundred tons of merchandise, the [illegible] freight ever brought here. This arrival is very [illegible] time, as the stocks of goods, generally, in the city [illegible] very much reduced and broken. It had become almost impossible to fill a general order for assorted [illegible], even by going out among fellow dealers to purchase parcels. Even the large freight of the Stephens will fall far short of supplying the deficiencies and our [illegible] will have to await future arrivals to complete their assortments.

HOME AGAIN.—Quite a large number of our citizens returned by the Stephens, some of whom had been absent [illegible] in California, or the Eastern States. [illegible] the number is Mr. Isom White, of the firm of White Bros., who brings with him a new Superintendent for the Oregon City Woolen Mills—Mr. J. J. Weisley, of Rockwell, Connecticut, a gentleman who has had large experience in the woolen mills of New England and who will be able, perhaps, to improve upon our staple and [illegible] goods, heretofore produced.

CONCLUSION OF THE NEGRO CASE.—Two of the men engaged in the muss with the negro, Johnson, the other night, had a jury trial on Tuesday and as usual in such case, were found not guilty. Johnson and his companion, another negro, were next tried by the Recorder, on a charge of assault and battery and they, too, were discharged. [illegible] two other white men were tried upon the charge of assault and battery, convicted and fined $30 each, in default of which they were sent to the county jail, to board their fines.

THE FESTIVAL.—Notwithstanding the unfavorable state of the weather, the Ladies' Festival at the Baptist [illegible] was well attended, and we hope they will experience no difficulty in liquidating the indebtedness accruing from the very neat improvements lately made on their house of worship. The printers heartily enjoyed the collation kindly sent.

PRODUCE.—Arrived from Oregon City yesterday, per [illegible] 311 bags wheat, 422 boxes apples, and 4 [illegible]. The Alert brought down, in the afternoon, 2,140 qr sks flour, 671 bags wheat, 77 boxes apples, 39 sks feed, 12 sks dried apples, 7 bundles trees, 5 [illegible], 2 sks oysters, 1 coop chickens.

THE UPPER COLUMBIA.—Capt. Wolff informs us that the ice was floating yesterday morning at the Dalles, and the presumption there was that the gorge at Hell Gate had broken loose. The Owyhee had not returned from her experimental trip up the river.

NO COUNCIL MEETING.—The Mayor and Clerk attended last evening, waited about an hour, and no members of [illegible] appearing, they left in disgust. Afterwards [illegible] Burch and Porter came in, stayed awile and then they left in a similar frame of mind.

RAILROAD MATERIAL.—The Bulletin of the 5th, in its commercial article, mentions the arrival of the Hallie [illegible] of "another instalment of material for the Oregon [illegible] Railroad."

[illegible] COURT—UPTON JUDGE.—Proceedings of Wednesday, 12th: State of Oregon vs. James Timons, Jury trial, the entire day occupied in the examination of [illegible].

THANKS.—We are indebted to Mr. Charles Barrett for [illegible] of the latest magazines and newspapers, received by the John L. Stephens.

THE STEAMER WENAT.—This steamer, late the Cowlitz, made her first trip to Oregon City yesterday, returning with a full load of produce.

TIME CHANGED.—The steamer John L. Stephens will sail for San Francisco on Saturday next, which is duly announced by advertisement.

GONE TO SEA.—By the arrival of the Couch from Astoria, we learn that the bark Occident went to sea on Monday afternoon.

SIGNS AND PORTENTS.—From the earliest times there has been in many minds a firm belief in supernatural [illegible]. If there is anything like skepticism remaining in this community regarding the ability of Bauman Bros. to sell the best goods at the lowest prices, it will be removed by calling at their store at the corner of Front and Morrison streets where a large new stock of every description of Clothing and Furnishing Goods, received by the steamer John L. Stephens, will be found.

GUARDIAN SALE OF REAL ESTATE.—We call special attention to the important sale of valuable real estate by A. B. Richardson, auctioneer, at the Court House door to-day at 2 o'clock P. M.

A young sailor wrote home that when he reached Honolulu he "found the beach covered with sandwiches."

Gail Hamilton has kicked up a breeze by saying that the public welfare would be promoted by restricting the suffrage among men, rather than extending it to women. Mrs. Stanton thinks Gail a humbug, while everybody knows Mrs. Stanton is.

SOOTHING AND BRACING.—There is no preparation in existence which has such a soothing effect in cases of nervous excitement as
Although the fame of this renowned invigorant rests mainly on its astonishing cures of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and intestinal disorders, it is equally efficacious in nervous complaints. Thousands of ladies resort to it as a remedy for hysteria, fluttering of the heart, nervous headache, vertigo, general debility and all peculiar disturbances and derangements to which, as a sex, they are subject. It cheers and lightens the depressed mental powers as well as strengthens the body, and its use is never followed by any unpleasant reaction. Sold by all Druggists and dealers everywhere.

BUCHU.
(From Dispensatory of the United States.)

DIOSMA CRENATA - - - - - BUCHU LEAVES.

Properties.—Their odor is strong, diffusive, and somewhat aromatic, their taste bitterish and analogous to mint.

Medical Properties and Uses.—Buchu leaves are gently stimulant, with a peculiar tendency to the Urinary Organs.

They are given in complaints of the Urinary Organs—such as Gravel, Chronic Catarrh of the Bladder, Morbid Irritation of the Bladder and Urethra, Disease of the Prostrate and Retention or Incontinence of Urine, from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation. The remedy has also been recommended in Dyspepsia, Chronic Rheumatism, Cutaneous Affections, and Dropsy.

Helmbold's Extract Buchu is used by persons from the ages of 18 to 25 and from 35 to 55, or in the decline or change of life, after Confinement or Labor Pains; Bed-wetting in children.

In Affections Peculiar to Females the Extract Buchu is unequalled by any other remedy, as in Chlorosis or Retention, Irregularity, Painfulness or Suppression of Customary Evacuations, Ulcerated or Schirrous State of the Uterus, Leucorrhea or Whites.

Diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Gravel and Dropsical Swellings.—This medicine increases the power of Digestion and excites the absorbents into healthy action, by which the Watery or Calcareous depositions, and all Unnatural Enlargements are reduced as well as Pain and Inflammation.

Helmbold's Extract Buchu has cured every case of DIABETES in which it has been given, Irritation of the Neck of the Bladder and Inflammation of the Kidneys, Ulceration of the Kidneys and Bladder, Retention of Urine, Diseases of the Prostrate Gland, Stone in the Bladder, Calculus, Gravel, Brick Dust Deposit and Mucous or Milky Discharges, and for Enfeebled or Delicate Constitutions, of both Sexes, attended with the following symptoms.—Indisposition to Exertion, Loss of Power, Loss of Memory, Difficulty of Breathing, Weak Nerves, Trembling, Horror of Disease, Wakefulness, Dimness of Vision, Pain in the Back, Hot Hands, Flushing of the Body, Dryness of the Skin, Eruption on the Face, Pallid Countenance, Universal Lassitude of the Muscular System, &c.

The Pain Killer Abroad.

The following correspondence will show something of the estimation in which Perry Davis' Pain Killer is held on the shores of the Mediterranean. It is not surprising that a medicine that receives such testimonials as this from abroad, should find well sustained and increasing appreciation at home.

U. S. CONSULATE, Tunis, Dec. 27, 1865.
To the Proprietors of Davis' Pain Killer, Providence, R. I. Gentlemen—The enclosed has just been received from my friend Tulin, late Consul General of Norway and Sweden and of Prussia in this place. No comment is needed. Truly yours, AMOS PERRY.

GENOA, December 16, 1865.
Dear Sir.—Accept thanks for this third supply of Davis' "Pain Killer." This medicine has often relieved me of serious indisposition and I would not on any account consent to be without it, both for myself and my family.
I have recommended it to my late colleagues and friends in Tunis and Genoa, and at my request one of the largest druggists in this city has sent an order to New York to meet the demand in this place.
Yours truly, G. A. TULIN,
Ex-Consul Gen'l of Sweden, Norway & Prussia in Tunis.

CHARTRES COFFEE!
Manufactory Established in June, 1851.
STEAM POWER, NOS 525 AND 527 FRONT ST.

HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities. CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.
The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless buyers should be forewarned and placed on their guard against this practice.
BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.
Each package bears the signature of G. VENARD.

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS!
A Pure and Powerful Tonic,
Corrective and Alterative, of wonderful efficacy in Diseases of the STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.
PROTECTIVE PROPERTIES.
Prevents Fever and Ague and Billious Remittent Fevers; Fortifies the System against Miasma and the evil effects of unwholesome water; Invigorates the organs of digestion and the bowels,
Steadies the Nerves and tends to Prolong Life.
REMEDIAL PROPERTIES.
Cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Sick and Nervous Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation, Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Sea Sickness, Cramps and Spasms, and all complaints of either sex arising from Bodily Weakness, whether inherent in the system or PRODUCED BY SPECIAL CAUSES.

NOTHING THAT IS NOT WHOLESOME, GENIAL, and restorative in its nature, enters into the composition of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind; no deadly botanical element, no fiery excitant, but is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants, with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants.
The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated, and the appetite restored by this Tonic, and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia, and in less confirmed forms of Indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless aperient, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs.
Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous Attacks, Lowness of Spirits, and Fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is conclusive, and from both sexes.
As a Genuine Tonic, HOSTETTER'S BITTERS produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of Constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and Debility and Decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-enforce and re-establish them.
Last, but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acrid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day.

The Increase in the Stock of the Precious Metals

[From the Alta California.]

Among the many wonderful events of the present time, entirely unexampled in history, is the marvellous increase in the supply of the precious metals. Mines of gold and silver were worked in antiquity and Spain for a time yielded $4,000,000 annually, but that large production soon ceased, and with that exception the increase of the precious metals from mines within the range of civilization seldom rose to a million dollars in a year. After the overthrow of the Roman Empire there was a steady decrease and at the time of the discovery of America the total stock on hand in Europe was only about $170,000,000 or not more than the production of a twelve month in our time. The opening of the mines in Mexico and Peru made a greater sensation, relatively, in the sixteenth century (though they then yielded only about $7,000,000 annually, on an average), than the opening of California and Australia with $120,000,000 in the nineteenth century. A large part of the total production, however, is consumed by loss and wear, and by use in the arts for ornaments and table-ware. The net increase for the sixteenth century was only two millions and a half, in the following century, it was ten, and in the eighteenth, twenty-five, so that the stock in Christendom in 1800 was about $4,000,000,000, an increase of $3,830,000,000, or 2300 per cent in three centuries.

But the gross increase in that time had been, according to the estimates of Jacobs, one of the highest authorities, about $6,100,000,000 so that the wear, loss, consumption in the arts, and exportation to Asia, had been about $2,500,000,000. The last has been a considerable item in the commerce of Europe since prehistoric times. Southern and Eastern Asia have always produced certain drugs, spices, metals, jewels, and fine textures, which Europe did not produce and would have. The Asiatics were too poor to purchase European goods in return, so a steady current of the precious metals flowed eastward to pay for the westward current of merchandise. The relative quantity of coin being much smaller in Hindostan and China than in Christendom, it had, and still has, a much higher value; so high that the common people seldom see gold, and silver is the chief, and in many districts the only material of currency. Silver, therefore, has been demanded of the West [illegible] than gold; and it is now nearly two thousand years since Pliny said "Asia is the sink of silver." The metal once sent there never returned. This current still flows and has attained far larger proportions than ever [illegible]. In the sixteenth century about two millions went annually to Asia; in the seventeenth, not quite so much; in the eighteenth, four millions, and now the average amount is about seventy millions, so great has been the increase of trade with the remote East. The Chinese and Hindoos are still so poor relatively that they can afford to buy European goods in only very small quantity and their accounts must be settled in coin.

But is this drain upon Christendom to continue at its present rate for ever? Certainly not. The stock of precious metals among the Asiatics is increasing far more rapidly than their industry, and the necessary consequence will be a rise in the prices of their products and labor, an improvement in the [illegible] condition of the people, and enlarged [illegible] for European luxuries, an increase of the importation of merchandise, and a decrease in that of silver. How far distant the day of this change may be we cannot see, but that it must come is certain, and it is probably not very far off. Already some very remarkable changes have been made in Japan, [illegible], and the open ports of China. When the time comes that Asia imports as much merchandise as she exports, so that there will be no noteworthy current of [illegible], then the increase of gold and silver in Christendom, unchecked by the [illegible] drain of the past, will be [illegible] rapid, and the influence upon prices will be correspondingly great.

The [illegible] are chiefly valuable for coinage, to which they are peculiarly adapted, and the coin and currency of a country [illegible] a certain proportion in value to its [illegible]. The wealth of a country for domestic trade is not increased at all by increasing its currency; as the quantity becomes greater, the relative value becomes less. In proportion as the stock of silver became greater in Europe, after the discovery of America, in that proportion its value per ounce fell, or, in other words, the value of other things rose. The coin that would buy a bushel of wheat in England [illegible] an average year, [illegible] the end of the [illegible], will buy only one-eighth of [illegible]. The depreciation of the precious [illegible] from 1500 to 1800; [illegible] there has been such a [illegible] of industry and commerce, [illegible] of the introduction of the [illegible], the great chem[illegible] building up of a first-class [illegible] the vast migration [illegible] and the opening of the [illegible] mines have not [illegible] keep pace, so [illegible] but little decrease in the value of the precious metals in the last fifty [illegible], there are signs that the price of [illegible] falling again. The [illegible] are complaining that [illegible] to furnish them with [illegible]. The horse, steam engines, railroads and steamboats are so numerous [illegible] for more. With all [illegible] they last a long time. As the opportunities for making profits [illegible] become rarer, the money itself [illegible] its value; and last year we saw interest fall in London to two per cent per annum—a fact never witnessed before. Michel Chevalier, one of the greatest financiers and financial writers of our age, says the time for a [illegible] in the value of gold and silver, and for a great depreciation in the value of land, labor and the products of industry [illegible] at hand.

"Throwing Off on Another Martyr."—The Democratic party in its treatment of its leaders, very much resembles those other savages who eat up their parents as soon as they have "outlived their usefulness." The Eastern Democratic journals are tearing to pieces the man who was the standard-bearer of the party in its dark days, and who endured obloquy, reproach and expatriation for his adherence to their cherished principles. This is the way the New York World talks of the "great martyr," and the World "draws it mild" compared with some of the other Democratic "organs:"

"Vallandigham is a vulgar politician, who is half inordinate vanity and half inordinate selfishness. There is nothing else of him, except the capital which Lincoln and Burnside set him up in business with, as a martyr. On that capital he traded till he had bankrupted himself and nearly bankrupted his party in Ohio. Now Thurman is sent to the Senate and Vallandigham hates him. Now Pendleton is Ohio's choice for the Vice Presidency, and Vallandigham hates him. The victories of Miltiades will not suffer him to sleep. But instead of emulating the sterling worth, the patriotism, or the public services of Pendleton, this envious creature whets a dagger for his ribs, gnashes his teeth, and informs the country that "the result in the Eighth District has a most important bearing on the Presidential nomination in the Democratic party."

A Reminiscence—Mr. Cameron.—One of the incidents at the S[illegible]man presentation is noteworthy, as recalling what many are prone to forget. After the ceremony of presentation was over, the company called out for Mr. S. S. Cox, who remarked, that at the beginning of the war its magnitude was underrated by the great body of statesmen, politicians and statesmen. But there were three men who seemed to appreciate its immensity, said Mr. Cox. Judge Douglas had told him on his way to Illinois, before his decease, that the "war would be tremendous, and the preparations should be stupendous," that Gen. Sherman had been accounted crazy because he had said that 200,000 men were required in the West; that Senator Cameron (who was never accounted crazy, however, but who is now a member of the Committee on Foreign Relations) had thought 1,000,000 would be required! He proposed to toast the "War Minister, whose prescience was equal to the great emergency." The toast was received with applause, and the General came forward to acknowledge the compliment, amid applause and congratulations.

Curious History of the "Vailed Prophet of Khorassan."

Arminius Vambery's "Central Asia," which has just appeared in London, is a supplement to his work called "Travels in Central Asia." This volume gives interesting accounts of some new adventures of M. Vambery, while exploring the East in the disguise of a Dervish and also contains a series of chapters on the manners, characteristics and literature of the Central Asiatic race. The pages devoted to the ancient history of Bokhara contains an account of Mokana, the origin of the "Vailed Prophet of Khorassan," in Moore's "Lalla Rookh." Mokanna occupied himself, in early youth, with acquiring all kinds of knowledge, including enchantments and secret arts. At length he gave himself out as a prophet, and proclaimed to his adherents that he had existed earlier in the world as Adam, Ibrahim, Moses, Jesus, and Mohammed, and called upon them to follow him to Paradise. He continually wore a vail to conceal his deformity, as his features were distorted, and he was one eyed and bald. He obtained many followers, and the greater part of the villages around Samarcand and Bokhara went over to his party. After a contest of many years between Mokanna and the Mohammedans the prophet was driven across the Oxus and retreated into a strong fortress on the mountain of Siam, where he finally perished. M. Vambery says:

"Mokanna, the mysterious prophet, kept himself during this period always in the fortress, attended by one hundred of the loveliest women of Transoxania. The interior of the castle was kept only for those with himself and one male page, besides these there was no earthly one permitted to penetrate into his sanctuary. They say that fifty thousand of his followers lay at the gate of the fortress, and earnestly implored him to show but once his god-like splendor. He refused, sent his page with the message 'Say to the servants that Musa (Moses) also wished to see my godhead, but the beams of my splendor he could not support. My glance kills instantly the earth born.' The enthusiastic adherents assured him that they would gladly offer their lives as a sacrifice if this high enjoyment was allowed to them. When he could no further deny them, Mokanna consented to their entreaty, and appointed them to come at a certain time before the gate of the fortress, where he would show himself. On the evening of the appointed day he ordered that his women should be placed in a line with looking glasses in their hands, as the beams of the setting sun were reflected in the looking glasses, and when every thing was illuminated by that reflection, he ordered them to open the doors. The splendor blinded the eyes of his devoted adherents, who fell prostrate and called out: 'God! enough for us of thy glory; for if we see it more all will be destroyed!' They lay long in the dust supplicating him, until at length he sent his page with the message 'God is pleased with you, and he has given you for your use the good of all the world.'

"Fourteen long years Mokanna is reported to have lived in this fortress, consuming his time with women in drinking and carousing. The Arab Field Marshal, Said Herei, had at last, after a hard seige, driven him into straits. The outer part was taken, and there was only the inaccessible citadel on a higher eminence. With the extinction of his ascendant star, Mokanna was abandoned by his followers, and when he saw the inevitable ruin nigh, he decided not to fall into the hands of his enemies, rather to destroy himself with himself and treasure. He gave to the women at a last carouse a strong dose of poison in wine, and challenged them to empty a goblet with him. All drank but one, who poured the wine into her bosom, and, as an eye witness, told later the whole catastrophe. According to her, Mokanna, after all the women had fallen dead, cut off the head of his faithful page, and quite naked, burnt himself and his treasures in a furnace which had been heated for three days. He announced before that he wished to go to heaven to call the angels to his help. 'I have long watched the furnace,' said the fortunate woman who escaped, 'but he never came back in that fashion.' After the death of Mokanna there were many sects and creeds, but they concealed themselves from the ever-increasing power of Islam. Under the Samanides the doctrine of Mohammed spread more and more, and the Transoxanian countries became soon famous for their religious zeal."

Destitution in New York.—From the January report of the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, we learn that the past month was one of great suffering, there having been greater destitution than at any period so limited since the winter of 1864. There is no exaggeration in the statement that there are thousands of families in this city, usually self-supporting—including men, women, and helpless children—who, if left to themselves unaided, are in danger of freezing or starvation. The number of persons now assisted by the Association, who have been reduced to beggars by failure of employment nearly equals the destitution of the memorable winter of 1854-'55. It is said that there is not now a vessel building in New York city. Journeymen are now discharged from the closing of foundries, factories, yards and workshops; sailors are without ships; porters and clerks without places; laborers unemployed, and female employees and serving girls without work. Compared with the past winter there has been a decrease of receipts, amounting to $5,411. The number of persons assisted during the month was 17,781, and the number of visits reported, 8,712. The wards in which there appears to be the greatest destitution, are the Fifth, Eighth, Eleventh, and Seventeenth.—New York World.

Medical.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

616 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgence or from virus absorbed into the system. Look at their pallid emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life destroying maladies—see that they are cured for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Fallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, feted breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders, who, with bogus sworn-to certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen, and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. Look over the San Francisco Directory, and you will not find their Medical Institutes in it, but you will find their former occupations in it. Look at the Directory for 1862 and 1863. The only way to avoid imposition is to make enquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets, for, as advertising physicians, in eight cases out of ten, are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patient's letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat d'ser'es that he proposes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 616 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco. Post Office Box 252.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 252 ON THE LETTER.

Consultations FREE.

* IN ALL CASES WHERE CON[illegible] DENCE IS REQUIRED THE UTMOST SECRESY [illegible] TAINED.*

The above [illegible], [illegible] by Dr. J. C. Young in 1856, and which have done so [illegible] to secure the reputation of [illegible] Institute, are still adh[illegible], affording those in need of medical aid, the certainty of cure and the utmost confid[illegible].

There is nothing of so [illegible] importance to the sick as to know where to find a physician whose skill and human[illegible] give assurance of proper [illegible] delicate treatment. The [illegible] tor would respectfully call [illegible] attention of those of [illegible] who are suffering or in [illegible] to the invariable suc[illegible] has marked the career of [illegible] Institute in the seventeen [illegible] of its existence.

It is unnecessary in this [illegible] to enumerate all [illegible] complaints treated at the [illegible] stitute, but the Doctor [illegible] his duty to call especial [illegible] tion to that terrible [illegible]

SEMINAL WEAKNESS,

That is sapping [illegible] sidiousness the very life [illegible] victims; in the tr[illegible] cure of which the Institu[illegible] cat[illegible] so enviable a [illegible] tion.

READ! READ!

I am aware that by dwelling upon a subject as the decay of manly vigor th[illegible] the vital principle of life, the [illegible] tive; but the desire to [illegible] guish and decay, the true [illegible] of their great and [illegible] ative to be f[illegible] tended the terrible [illegible] one but the practical [illegible] treatment can tell; but its [illegible] the most [illegible] by noting the [illegible] toms; Weakness of the back and [illegible] feelings, loss of m[illegible], cold feet or hands, [illegible] of [illegible] ption; short breath; [illegible] sion to society, conf[illegible] of the [illegible] nightly em[illegible] colorless; slight [illegible] least exit[illegible] pulpitati[illegible] regular appetite; irr[illegible] temper, etc.

YOUNG MAN, if you experience any of the symptoms enumerated above, pause to [illegible] present is the [illegible] moment in which you [illegible] health and happiness. You may feel [illegible] you have ever practiced the vice of [illegible] [illegible] system, and their [illegible] or later, dash the fair edifice of your [illegible] ground, leaving you a helpless, abject [illegible] disease that declares itself at once. [illegible] est danger; for while the patient is [illegible] affection of the Heart, Lungs, Brain, or [illegible] tions, he sinks into a general debility that [illegible] to the list of the victims of the terrible [illegible] Weakness.

See in the bent form and [illegible] victim of the fascinating vice! Mark the destructive complaint in the hollow cheek and [illegible]

Drowsiness is one of the pr[illegible] symptoms first it is easily shaken off, but [illegible] great disinclination to pursue his regular [illegible] mind becomes appreh[illegible] and restless days of dep[illegible]

It is the nature of the complaint to [illegible] changes that leave the poor victim but little [illegible] covery. In a single instant it may wither [illegible] hopes and blast your [illegible] aspirations.

Marriage is sought by a natural impulse [illegible] lief. This is an error of the first [illegible] tem, unprepared for the exigencies of the [illegible] denly fails, and he finds [illegible] from which there is but the slightest hope [illegible] Or if the marriage should result in [illegible] ny, distorted, decre[illegible] and [illegible] his to both sexes, whether married or [illegible] times of life.

Do not delay if you feel any of the [illegible] rible complaint, or if your acts have been [illegible] to them, but by instant application [illegible] only hope of health and [illegible] The [illegible] mercury or other [illegible] time, always guaranteed, and full and [illegible] stored.

The afflicted are assured of every [illegible]
